To Whom It May Concern:

Try as I may, I can find absolutely no constitutional authority for the actions the federal government has taken against Microsoft. These actions are a blatant usurpation, arrogation and illegitimate seizure of power of tyrannical proportions. While Bill Gates is not one of my personally favorite people, nevertheless, I totally object to any sanctions being placed on his company whatsoever by any branch of the federal government.

If justice is to be done, then all punishments, assessments, damages, fines, disciplines, judgments, limitations and agreements relating to this unjust "settlement" by the federal government against Microsoft must be voided and I demand that this be done.
